
MONDAY, JUNE 7, 1886.

BROTHER DAVIS evidently didn't know "it was loaded," when he picked up the gas question. He has found it so hot that he will probably drop it at once.

BROTHER DAVIS has a high estimation of the members of the City Council. In his opinion they are a lot of "lamb," entirely at the mercy of the Citizens Gas Light Company.

THE expenses of the Government for May, 1886, were $6,000,000 less than for May, 1885. The work of retrenchment and reform is going steadily forward under a Democratic administration.

It was estimated recently that R. R. Hayes would like to go to Congress, and an exchange asked right away where place he wanted to steal. It is hardly necessary to add that he can't steal any more from Samuel J. Tilden.

THE people of Mayville will not care a great deal whether gas is furnished them through a cast iron pipe, a wrought iron, or a wooden pipe for that matter, just so it furnished them, and they get it at not to exceed $1.50 per thousand.

AN exchange says the President's bride is not beautiful, that she is only what might be called "good looking." That's all right, but we'd like to know what our exchanges have got to do with her good looks. She's the first lady of the land now, and if Grover is satisfied we think that ought to settle it.

THE Mayville and Big Sandy Railroad will help to make Mayville the shipping point for a large section of country which now sends its produce in another direction. It will attract business to this city and every citizen should vote for the paltry subscription asked for. Let the vote be a rousing one.

THE bill imposing a tax of five cents a pound on oleomargarine and "butterine" passed the House on Tuesday by a vote of 177 to 101. Congressman W. H. Wadsworth voted against it, as did Breckinridge Taubee and Willis. The Louisville Times says "it is hoped that all these gentlemen voted with a knowledge of which side their bread is buttered."

IN there a farmer of Mason County who is too close-fisted to pay from $1 to $3 or $4 a year for a few years, towards such an enterprise as the Mayville and Big Sandy Railroad? The sum is insignificant and will never be missed. The benefit in the way of taxes, enhanced value of real estate, increase in prices of crops, &c., will amount to a deal more to every farmer than the taxes.

"MAYVILLE inkiness" was the startling headlines of a five-stick editorial in our esteemed contemporary last Saturday. Of course the people when they read that, rubbed their eyes and looked, and then rubbed their eyes again, and took another squint, but no darkness. They probably murmured to themselves, "If this be darkness, then let darkness reign forever." However, we think Mayville will survive.

How Does This Strike You?

IF the 1,000,000 pounds of tobacco grown almost annually in Mason County should bring one-quarter of a cent a pound more when the Mayville and Big Sandy Railroad is completed than it does now the profits to the farmers would amount to $20,000 a year. In fifteen years it would amount to $300,000, or about six times as much as the subscription asked for. Well any member of Mason County vote against the railroad proposition when he considers these figures? We think not.

Governor Durham.

Governor Knott is a man for whose ability and integrity we have always had the highest esteem; but he has certainly "tackled the wrong Tom cat" when he undertakes to ridicule Judge Durham out of the abiding temple he has builded in the heart of the true Kentuckian.

No, Governor, despite all your sarcasm and wily chosen ridicule, Judge Milton J. Durham will be your successor, and one of whom you have the best of reasons not to be ashamed. One of whose record Kentuckians are proud, and to whose broad capacity and intelligence, and faithful and efficient performance of duty, a whole nation testifies. By his rugged honesty, untiring industry and superior business attainments he has won a reputation not surpassed by that of the "hero of Duluth," and this, coupled with the experience a wise man never fails to profit by, renders the Judge peculiarly fitted to succeed a man who "woke up one morning and found himself famous," and all because "he opened his mouth and spoke."

And, Governor, you will have the satisfaction of knowing that you unintentionally helped him to the position, which he will grace, and occupy with honor and credit to the State.—London (Ky.) Leader.

THE PRESIDENT AND BRIDE

SCENES AND INCIDENTS OF A DAY AT DEER PARK.

THE Pure and Bracing Air—Strolls Through the Grounds—The "Dead Line"—Drives Through the Mountains—Mrs. Cleveland Happily Angling on the Program.

DEER PARK, Md., June 7.—The bride and groom are having another perfect day. The air is pure and bracing, and the president-elect walking about the grounds about 10 o'clock, stopping for some minutes to chat with the guests on the bridge, or what is termed the "Davis dead line," beyond which no one not authorized to approach the presidential cottage is allowed to pass. A Baltimore or Ohio messenger boy has made several trips to the cottage this morning. The president expects Col. Lamont and possibly Mrs. Folson to arrive during the day to spend Sunday.

The program for the president and wife is an early dinner with the Davis family and another drive through the mountains in the afternoon. Mrs. Cleveland greatly enjoys these drives, and appears perfectly happy in the quietness which surrounds their mountain home. The fishing party has not yet been made up, but may be to-day, and it is possible a little angling may be done soon.

RETALIATION.

Custom House Orders Regarding Canadian Vessels Arriving at Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, O., June 7.—Custom house officials have received orders to allow no Canadian vessels to unload goods at this port until it is permitted from the up-town custom house has been obtained. The up-town office closes at 4 p. m., and Canadian vessels arriving after that time, if only ten minutes late, will be compelled to lay idle until next morning. This rule has always been in effect but has never before been enforced, permits being granted at the dock custom house. The order will cause Canadian vessels much unnecessary delay and trouble, and is generally regarded as an outrage of the present fisheries trouble with Canada.

Scottdale Searched.

SCOTSDALE, Pa., June 7.—An explosion of a lamp in the hands of a little girl in the Enterprise school, started a fire which burned eight buildings, business houses, dwellings, etc., entailing a loss of over $20,000. Valuable assistance was rendered by the Connelville fire company which came on a special train. Fireman Schwartzendruber fell from a building, striking on the pavement twenty feet below, receiving serious injuries. The little girl in whose hands the lamp exploded, is missing and it is supposed she perished in the flames.

Hurt by a Falling Scaffold.

MANSFIELD, O., June 7.—Three carpenters, MANSFIELD, O., June 7.—Three carpenters, named John Jones and P. M. Rainey, the latter from Akron, jumped from the roof of the scaffolding of Alfred Hooper's new residence, at about 10 o'clock, and fell with it to the ground, a distance of sixteen feet. Hooper had several ribs broken, and is supposed to have received internal injuries of a fatal character. The other two were seriously hurt, but not dangerously hurt.

Held for Attempted Robbery.

MANSFIELD, O., June 7.—At the end of a hearing Mayor Francis Bond McLean, a worthless character, was taken to court in $300. On the night of Decoration Day he followed George Mear, a German farm hand, from a saloon to a quiet street, and with a view to robbing him, he attempted to throw up his hands. Mear struck his intended victim with a club, but was frightened off without securing any booty.

Carless Hunter's Terrible Work.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., June 7.—While two boys were returning from hunting, near Wheeling, one of them named Wagner, in handling the rifle, caused accidental discharge. The ball struck a daughter of Joseph Tenley, who was with her mother on the porch of their home, inflicting a wound from which she died in a few hours.

A Lost Lad.

NEWARK, O., June 7.—A German lad named August Hellman has been missing from his home since last night, at which time he was going to be bathing in the creek. Fears are felt that he has lost his life by being drowned. He is fifteen years old and stoutly built. He was last seen on the north side of the creek, but no trace has been found of him.

Sunday School Convention.

LIBERTY, Ind., June 7.—The fourteenth annual Union County Sabbath School association was held near here yesterday, with a basket dinner in the woods. It was the largest and most enthusiastic convention ever held in the county. E. P. Brown, a former Cincinnati, was elected president for the next year.

Vanleet to Be Extradited.

NORWALK, O., June 7.—Prosecuting Attorney T. H. Kellogg went to Columbus to make application to Governor Pennington for requisition papers for extradition of Martin O. Vanleet. As soon as he returns with documents Deputy Sheriff Smith will proceed to Brantford, Canada, to bring the prisoner to Norwalk.

Railroad Suit.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 7.—The Western Construction company has entered suit in the United States court at Indianapolis to recover $1,800,000 of the Frankfort and State Line railroad company held by S. H. Kneeland and A. A. Thomas in trust.

The Wall Collapsed.

ELKHART, Ind., June 7.—The entire south wall of the newly erected brick block, belonging to O. T. Chamberlain, collapsed at 6 o'clock last evening. The portion had just been removed into the north room last Saturday. That portion remains intact. The loss is quite heavy.

The Blaine Speech Current.

PORTLAND, Me., June 7.—Bates Torrey, a well-known stenographer, says that Mr. Blaine repeated the speech of Mr. Blaine correctly. Mr. Torrey took the entire speech.

Liquor dealers from various parts of Ohio with attorneys for local associations, met at Columbus. The purpose is to fight the Dow liquor law, and back after the interest of the trade generally. A committee submitted a report in favor of a state organization to be known as the Ohio Liquor Dealers' league. It was decided to employ ex-Governor Hodges and E. W. Kittredge, of Cincinnati, Judge W. W. Boynton and Foran and Dawley, of Cleveland, as leading attorneys for the association.

HAVANA'S SHOPS AND CAFES.

Richness and Taste in Display—Dress of the Salesmen—Cleanliness.

In America it is the effort of merchants to get goods of every earthly description under one roof. Here the shops are more characteristic and individualized, as a rule. One will deal in silks and trimmings; another only in velvets and velveteens; another may show superb lines of linen; another, fancy notions and small wares may be found at another; again a shop will sell wools exclusively; another prints and cottons; and rarely will you find the notion store. So, too, outside of the textile fabrics these divisions in trade are rigorously observed. A photographer is not an all-around business, nor is the jewelry dealer the jeweler sells jewelry, not clocks and watches; the woodworker, ironware, and basket-maker are merchants, and not each all the others; and wine merchants do not sell soap.

All these shops there is a richness and taste, but not ostentatiousness, in display; and from one end of the city to another the neatness, brightness, lightness, and airiness of the shop form much of Havana's attractiveness. All this, too, is in despite of an architecture that would preclude delicate arrangement among a more stolid people. But the Spaniard and Cuban both possess just enough efficiency to make a display neat out of an old ruin anywhere. Again the dress of merchants, salesmen, and the most menial keepers adds to the pleasing effect of the shop. Nearly all are attired in linen, pure white or in dainty stripes. The white jacket is a universal, and it is rarely seen. It is a clean thing, too. They are only pretentious or slovenly who relegate it to full-dress use anywhere.

Many men are clad only in patent-leather gaiters and linen pantaloons and shirts, but these are spotted. Indeed, the Cubans are the cleanest people regarding their dress I ever knew. A storekeeper will load molasses on a vessel a whole week and you will hardly find a spot upon his white linen suit when Saturday night comes. Somehow your sense of propriety is not offended when you see cash boys, errand-boys and keepers of sort of neat, tight, loosely woven cotton shirts, for a change, here will stand three or four negroes, packers or boxers, or something of the sort, with bare feet, spotted pantaloons held by a gay sash, and with naked, gleaming waists, arms, and shoulders.—Elgar L. Wakeman's Cuba Letter.

MINNEAPOLIS BLAZE.

Fire in the Nicollet House—Great Excitement—Dance Trifling.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 7.—A fire broke out in the upper story of the Nicollet house, and before the department could be summoned it had gained a start that threatened the destruction of the whole building. The house is the second in the city in point of size. A large addition had just been added at a cost of $30,000. The ground floor had all the railroad offices in the city, and several stores.

The fire started in the kitchen, situated in a second-story addition in the rear of the house. The upper part of the house was occupied by a dance, and the excitement was in number. Great excitement prevailed among them, but all were removed by the aid of ladders without injury. The guests were much frightened and excited, and hastened to the street by fire escapes, many of them being in their night clothes. The fire was extinguished, however, with a loss of only $10,000.

The Tie-Up in New York.

NEW YORK, June 7.—By order of the executive committee of Assembly No. 75 all the street car lines were tied-up with the exception of the Third Avenue railroad, which is being operated by non-union drivers employees in the places of their old hands. A number of the latter, however, went out and joined the old hands. All the car lines in Brooklyn were also tied up in accordance with the order of the executive committee of Assembly No. 75.

The gravity of the strike viewed from a police standpoint is evinced in a general or der, ordering all patrolmen on vacation for duty forthwith. Up to 1 o'clock some thirty cars had been run over the Bleecker street line under police protection.

Safe 'Nuts' Needed.

MORRIS, Ill., June 7.—The crops are suffering very much for lack of rain. The perfect deluge of rain which fell in the early spring followed by the long and continued drought, has left the soil in a very hard and lumpy condition, so much so that it is almost impossible to work it.

Minnesota Fleur for Ireland.

SANDUSKY, O., June 7.—The propeller Nebraska arrived here from Duluth with eighty thousand sacks of Minnesota flour en route to Belfast, Ireland. It will go to Baltimore on the Baltimore and Ohio, and will require five tons of twenty-six cars each to transport it.

Alleged Ravisher Jailed.

CENTRALIA, Ill., June 7.—George Wesley Ward, charged with assaulting a thirteen-year old girl in this place last Wednesday, was caught at Kinwaddy, Ill., waived examination, and was taken to jail.

Mr. O. S. Brumback, of Toledo, has been retained as counsel by the Van Wert National bank in the matter of the package containing $10,000 sent from the Union National, of Cincinnati, and which was rifled by its contents. Mr. Brumback will be in Cincinnati in company with Superintendent C. E. Case, of the United States Express company, to further ferret out the theft. The package passed over the line a part of the distance; and the fact that part of the stuffing of the bogus package was Bee Line circulars, is believed to be an important clue.

Over-Worked Parts of Speech.

We wish the adjective would strike. They are so overworked. Mr. Brumback will be in Cincinnati in company with Superintendent C. E. Case, of the United States Express company, to further ferret out the theft. The package passed over the line a part of the distance; and the fact that part of the stuffing of the bogus package was Bee Line circulars, is believed to be an important clue.

The Selection That Obscurity Grants. Mr. Stead, late editor of The London Pall Mall Gazette, seems to have sought the seclusion that obscurity grants, and the "great find" that was to have been raised to enable him to "retire" exists only in the British mind.—Exchange.

Such Is Artistic Fame Nowadays. Milha's celebrated painting, "Bubbles," has been bought for $11,000 by a London soap manufacturing firm, and a lithograph copy will be made for advertising purposes.—Chicago Herald.

Though painful and wearing almost beyond endurance, it is not an incurable disease if treated in time.
